

Now more than ever, the way we show up as leaders and how we position ourselves and our company is critical to our future success.

Janice Otremba is a Professional Certified Coach and accomplished keynote speaker with over 25 years' experience in her field. Janice typically works with those in leadership roles such as executives, CEOs, and thought leaders.

Her background in crisis intervention and trauma-informed care brings a unique perspective to the areas she focuses on, including: relationship intelligence, stress management, crisis intervention, and collaboration.

With the workplace shifting faster than ever, our future results will reflect how well we support our people today. Building a team that stays and performs is simple when we access and implement the right tools.
